

DETERMINED TO TRY DONALDSON

Judge Armstrong Tells Attorney He Is Tired of Continuances.

SAMUEL KING MAKES PLEA

TRIAL OF ALLEGED BUNCO MAN MONDAY.

Judge Armstrong of the district court yesterday informed Samuel King, attorney for the notorious "Dr. Jim" Donaldson, charged with being implicated in the McWhirter swindle, that he was tired of granting continuances in the case and that unless some extraordinary reason were presented Monday for further postponement the trial would be called at 10 o'clock in the morning.

"I have already granted three continuances in this case," said the judge, "and I don't propose to grant another unless you present the strongest kind of affidavits alleging inability to proceed Monday morning. This matter has been before the court long enough and I want to get it out of the way."

"But, your honor," said Mr. King, "one of those postponements was with the consent of the district attorney, who did not have time to try the case then."

No More Continuances.

"I know that," replied the judge, "but this business of continuing cases indefinitely must stop and I want to assure you that whatever affidavits you bring in will be closely scrutinized and most strictly judged Monday morning. We have a panel of forty jurors who have been cited to appear especially for this case at that time. A great many of them are farmers and can't be reached now until they have started for town. If the case is postponed we will have no use for these men and the county will be put to a considerable expense. I will insist that the trial begins Monday."

Frederick C. Looftbourow, district attorney, was present and in addressing the court said that it would be a hardship on the state were the trial to be postponed, as all but one of the witnesses are in town and that he is on his way from Elly, Nev. "I am ready for trial," said the prosecutor, "and it appears to me that if the defense desired postponement, it should have been asked for several days ago."

Mr. King said that one of the reasons for asking for delay was that he had been called to Nevada to attend to some important business.

The appeal of the state in the Sheets case will be heard before the supreme court Monday, May 13. The state will be represented by F. C. Looftbourow, district attorney, and the defense by S. A. Thurman.

DIPHTHERIA SCARE ENDS

Closing of Washington School Causes Great Decrease in Number of Cases.

The closing of the Washington school recently on account of the diphtheria epidemic practically stopped the spread of the disease, according to the officials of the health department. It is claimed that if the school had been allowed to remain open there would in all probability have been a serious epidemic, but that the situation is now well under control.

This is borne out by the weekly report prepared yesterday, which shows that only two cases of the malady were reported during the week as against sixteen for the week before and fourteen for the week before that. Now seven cases remain in quarantine, but the most of these will be let out this week.

The report also shows that during the past week there were forty-four births in Salt Lake and twenty-one deaths. Eight cases of contagious diseases were reported, consisting of two cases of diphtheria, two of measles, one of meningitis and three of whooping cough.

DIFFERENCES ARE SETTLED

Street Department and Board of Works Have Reached Agreement Regarding Inspection Work.

The street department and the board of public works yesterday settled their differences in regard to the right of inspection on work done on the streets, and from now on all work done by public service corporations will be inspected by the street department and all work done under contract with the city will be inspected by the board of public works. The settlement was reached after a conference between Superintendent Raleigh and Chairman Leonard of the board. At a meeting of the board two weeks ago H. J. Dinwiddie, assistant city attorney, said that in his opinion this was a legal division of the responsibilities, that the board of works had no authority over work done by franchise holders and that the street department had nothing to say about work done by those under contract with the city to carry on improvements.

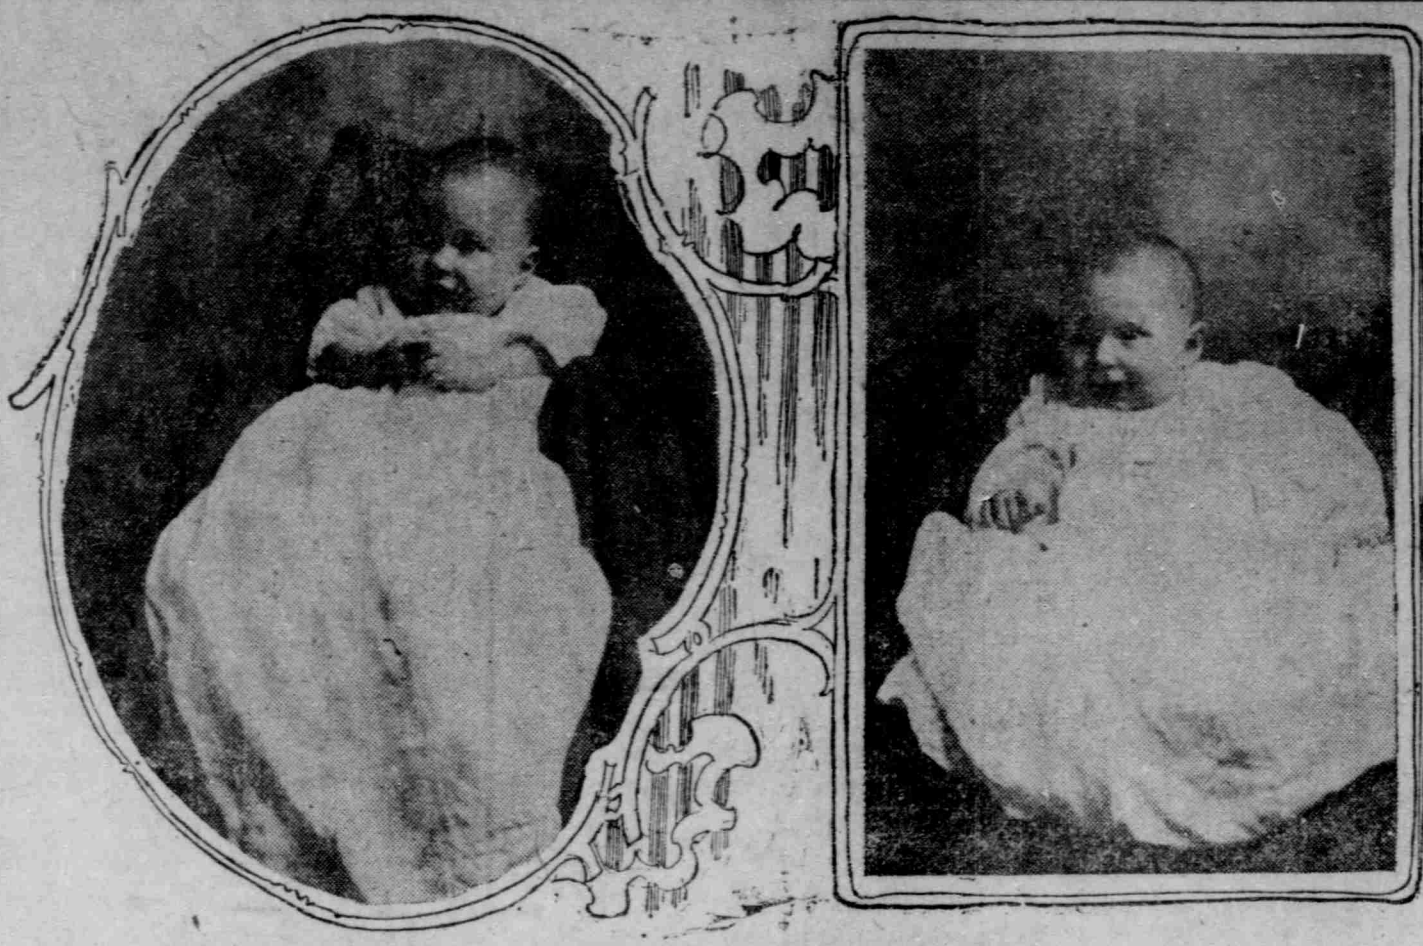

This amicable settlement will continue indefinitely unless Councilman Black insists in stirring up another rumormongering. At a time, at least, it has been arranged that the board of public works shall continue to inspect the work being done by the Utah Gas company in laying its mains. The street department will take charge of this early in the summer, as soon as the early spring work is completed. This inspection on franchise work is all paid for by the companies.

INFANTS TRANSPOSED BY PHOTOGRAPHER

The Snow Baby.

The Herald's story of Saturday morning about a baby whose fond parent identified the picture of another infant as his own offspring, created a great deal of comment yesterday. In response to numerous inquiries, the pictures of the two youngsters, which were transposed by the photographer, are here reproduced. The father referred to, having been offering numerous congratulations as to the most approved methods of identifying a child.

Both the little fellows are considered prodigies, of course, and even the discriminating of paternal heads of families must admit there might be a reasonable doubt in the masculine mind as to which one to select.

WATERLOO CARS CRASH TOGETHER

Collision the Result of Tampering With Unused Switch.

Cars Nos. 84 and 59 of the Waterloo line came together at a cross-over switch at Ninth South and Fifth East street, at 8:30 o'clock last night, and a Mr. Olson, a clerk at the Z. C. M. L., received slight bruises about the head by being knocked against the side of the car in which he was riding.

Mr. Olson was taken to the Latter-day Saints' hospital, where he was attended by Dr. J. C. Landenberger, after which he went home.

At the point where the accident occurred the line is double-tracked. The cross-over switch is never used except on special occasions. The evidence showed that the switch had been tampered with, presumably by boys in the neighborhood, just before car No. 59, which was carrying a load of bricks, crashed into car No. 84, which was run by the company.

A carriage was called by the company and Mr. Olson was taken to the hospital. Car No. 59 was in charge of Motorman L. J. Hart and Conductor Whitehead, and No. 84 in charge of Motorman H. C. Butler and Conductor H. Horsely.

FORTUNE FOR JAP FAMILY

Wife and Children in Far-Off Japan Will Receive Estate of Their Father, Killed Here.

Ten years ago H. Sasaki came to America from Japan to make his fortune, promising his wife and six children that he would return some day and make them all rich. He will never go back as he was killed six months ago in the Portland Cement company's works here, but his fortune, amounting to $30,000, will be sent back to his family in the land of the Mikado.

His brother, Takumatsue Sasaki, appeared in probate court yesterday before Judge Armstrong and made application to be appointed administrator of the estate. The petition was granted after the story had been told.

It appears that the family does not yet know of the father's death and that the first news that they will receive of it will be when the money is sent to them. The brother says that $200 will keep the mother and children for the rest of their lives.

BURBIDGE GOES TO POCATELLO

Says He Hopes Men Held There Are the Saloon Robbers.

OTHER SUSPECTS RELEASED

THOSE TAKEN IN SALT LAKE ESTABLISH INNOCENCE.

Captain Burbidge left last night on the 11:45 train for Pocatello to examine the two suspects being held by the authorities there as the supposed bandits who held up the Onyx bank saloon Thursday night.

"I hope they have the right men," said Captain Burbidge before leaving. "But unless some evidence can be produced that the men under suspicion are those who are wanted here, it will be impossible to extradite them from the state of Idaho. You can't bring men over the line on suspicion."

L. P. Patrick, J. D. McCloud, F. S. Copeland and William Schuett, the men who were arrested Friday as suspects in connection with the robbery, were released from custody yesterday afternoon.

The four men proved sufficiently to the police that they had nothing to do with the robbery. Patrick, McCloud and Schuett proved a complete alibi, their statement being borne out by the landlord of the rooming house where they were stopping, and by the conductor of a street car upon which the men rode from Liberty park Thursday night.

Copeland was released on the understanding that he leave town at once. Although there was nothing against him, and the police were satisfied that he had nothing to do with the robbery Thursday night, he had a record here which made three years ago, when he robbed a passenger at the Rio Grande depot of $30. He was arrested, but the passenger left town before the case came to trial, and Copeland was released.

Irwin Trew and J. Viles were examined by the police Thursday afternoon, but they were not arrested, as previously announced, as it was proved conclusively that they were innocent of any knowledge of the robbery.
